

ASBESTOS AWARENESS

For years, asbestos has been widely used in many industries, primarily in the construction sector. As a result, many of us who work in buildings built prior to the 1980s are working among asbestos-containing materials.

Although asbestos only poses a risk if the fibres are airborne, or have the potential to become airborne, today's standards limit the exposure levels of asbestos in all workplaces. In addition, every employer in Canada has a legal obligation under health and safety laws to inform their workers of the hazards or potential hazards that are present in the workplace.

Training Solution – Online Asbestos Awareness Course

Link2eLearning offers online asbestos training in three courses:

- Recognizing Asbestos Hazards – designed for those who work in proximity to asbestos
- Asbestos Awareness and National Asbestos Awareness – designed to inform those who may come into contact with asbestos, and explains the legislation and other legal processes with which they should become familiar.

Course Overview

Upon completing Recognizing Asbestos Hazards, participants should:

- Have a better understanding of asbestos
- Know the common types and classifications of asbestos
- Become familiar with the exposure risks associated with asbestos
- Know common locations of asbestos

In addition, participants who complete the Asbestos Awareness or National Asbestos Awareness course will:

- Understand Type 1, 2, and 3 asbestos operations
- Be familiar with certain control measures
- Understand the Asbestos work report and worker's registry
- Be aware of asbestos surveys/inventory in the workplace

Online Course Offers Convenience and Efficiency

These courses are powered by the Link2eLearning LMS (Learning Management System), so you can track course progress and completion. Each training solution provides quizzes, a final exam and a course completion certificate.
